

The Fruit Trees & White Rose Tree

This property is home to four fruit trees and a beautiful white rose tree, each offering its own seasonal touch to the landscape.

❖ Jelly Palm Tree

- Located in the front yard, the jelly palm produces small, sweet orange fruits around spring and summer. The fruits are currently visible at the top of the tree and will naturally fall when ripe.

❖ Nectarine Tree

- Located along the side of the house near the orange and lemon trees, this is the tallest of the fruit trees. It produces nectarines around spring, although there is no fruit on the tree at this time.

❖ Orange Tree

- The shortest of the fruit trees, the orange tree currently has a few pieces of fruit developing. The oranges are typically ready around spring.

❖ Lemon Tree

- The lemon tree produces fruit more frequently throughout the year, with multiple harvests possible. There is currently a generous amount of visible fruit on the tree, with some ready to be picked now.

❖ White Rose Tree

- Located next to the nectarine tree, the white rose tree produces beautiful white roses around spring, adding a lovely seasonal touch to the garden.
