EXHIBIT A

Sub: 1204 Timber Tr Solon, IA

To whom it may concern,

The four post footings supporting the four-seasons room and deck experienced movement, resulting in settlement ranging from approximately 1/4 inch to 1 inch. This movement caused drywall cracking in the walls and ceiling of the four-seasons room, as well as cracking in portions of the dining room and living room ceilings.

All four support posts were removed to investigate and repair the issue. During removal, it was determined that the footings had shifted rather than vertically settled, with the movement believed to be related to inadequate soil compaction around the original footings.

The original footings were removed and replaced. The new footings were installed several feet deeper than the original footings and were increased to approximately 36 inches in width, compared with the typical 24-inch width, to provide a larger bearing area and more stable base.

Following installation of the new footings, the deck/support posts were replaced. Drywall cracking associated with the prior movement was repaired, and affected painted surfaces were touched up.

Sincerely,

Brent Yirkovsky
